

Brian Gallucci

Managing Director

PFM Financial Advisors LLC

Brian Gallucci joined PFM in 2005 and is a leader of PFM's Airport Group. Brian has extensive experience providing technical analysis and strategic financial advice for municipal airports and seaports, as well as other municipal issuers. He assists airports with long-term financial planning, the structuring of debt and other financing solutions, transaction execution, and developing comprehensive credit strategies for rating agency and investor outreach.

Brian's clients include large, international gateways such as the San Francisco International Airport and Las Vegas McCarran International Airport, and consolidated port entities such as the Massachusetts Port Authority (Boston-Logan International Airport) and Port of Portland, OR (Portland International Airport). Brian also works with a diverse group of large, medium and small, and non-hub airports exploring financing options for critical capital improvements programs.

In his career, Brian helped clients plan, structure and issue debt to fund prominent aviation and maritime projects including airport and seaport terminal development, runway and airfield projects, rental car facilities, fuel systems, multimodal transportation facilities and other unique capital projects. He has advised clients on the use of a variety of debt structures, including publicly offered and privately placed bonds; fixed-rate, variable-rate and synthetic debt; interim financing vehicles; and other creative structures and mechanisms.
